MESSAGE

I have been associated with the National Rural Infrastructure Development Agency (NRIDA) for the past few years now. NRIDA is the nodal agency for coordinating and facilitating the implementation of the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojana. It is a compact, multi-disciplinary and professional organization responsible for extending technical and managerial support to the Government of India for effective implementation of the PMGSY programme.

In this digital age, an organization's website is an important and useful tool for engaging and interacting with the target stakeholders from all spheres. It is heartening to see the updated website of NRIDA with new and GIGW compliant features which I am sure, will serve the purpose of delivering the information and services in an accurate, relevant, transparent and timely manner.

I convey my warm congratulations and best wishes to the entire NRIDA family for launching their new updated website.
